Talli Moellering has spent several years of her professional life training teachers in the private and public schools on how to dramatically deliver the message of healthy relationships to the students in the classroom setting. Talli presents from a medically accurate perspective and does a great job delivering the message to educators.

Training topics can include but are not limited to:

- The whole person approach to sexuality: teaching the physical, social, psychological, financial and health gains to be realized by teens not engaging in sexual activity
- How to handle the tough topics: pornography, masturbation, technical virginity
- How to assist teens to not engage in teen sexual activity (the only certain way to eliminate the risks of unplanned pregnancy, sexually transmitted infections, and other associated health problems.)
- How to confront the issue of sex in our media within the classroom setting
- Interactive suggestions on how to educate teens to recognize and combat peer pressure situations
- How to promote the value of marriage and family
- How to help young people reject sexual advances and how alcohol and drug use increases vulnerability to teen sexual activity
- How to teach teens the importance of taking responsibility for the choices they make.

Fees are based on the training setting. Details and target areas for the training need to be discussed during the scheduling of the training.
